New Deritend gearboxes

This photo: New ball mill gearboxes for coal pulverisation at a UK coal fired power station; designed and built from scratch by Deritend.

Deritend, famous for repairs to large gearboxes in the power industry, also manufactures large gearboxes from scratch on short lead times.

Designed, fabricated and assembled in-house, this is one of a pair, each rated at 20,000Nm of output torque, Deritend has employed the highest quality helical gears and bearings, with specially fabricated casings designed to provide improved rigidity and enhanced cooling over the old cast 'boxes that are being replaced.

Asset Management

Deritend has developed AssetView a clear and comprehensive software system that can be used to catalogue and manage the maintenance and repair life of virtually any piece of equipment, from individual gearboxes to complete machine tools.
